Chris,

I'm glad I met you this year, you were the only person to talk to in Ukovich. I'm sorry I got you boyfriend busted at the grind - but it was Bruce fault. Don't screw up in school, but pay no attention to grades - just learn and STICK WITH ART. You are really a nice person and don't worry about what others think - just please yourself. Have a great ~~fuck~~ Summer.

Love,
John

Dear Chris,
Well, we finally made it through a year at Aragon. Just 3 more years to go! I've known you for a year now but this year I think this is the time we've really become good friends. I've got to know you a lot better. I hope we get a chance to be together next year. I have a great summer.

Luv ya,
Margaret

Summer Fun In Funner Sun

What did you do this summer? If you're an average high school student, you probably mnaged to make the most of your summer fun. Many headed to the beach, whether Half Moon Bay or Hawaii, to catch the rays or ride the surf. Or you could have been one of those students who, not having learned how to avoid it yet, went on a family vacation to the mountains, where Mom, Dad, your brothers and sisters and you all hopped in the family wagon and fought over who had to sit on the bump in the middle. Mom went sightseeing, Dad tackled the trails, and the rest of you stayed in the cabin watching TV and discussing life without video games over a Seven-Up. (Well, at least you had time to rethink your drink.) Other Aragonians probably either managed to land a part-time job, took a long plane trip to some far away place, or were brave enough to venture into the unknown ... the 1984 Los Angeles Olympic Games. Thousands of opportunities were open to Aragonians this summer, so what did you do in the funner sun?

1. Preparing for senior year; lessons in studliness.
2. Dahh, the marshmallow burned.
3. "Gee, Jason comb your hair much?"
4. Pretty sharp for one ski, Jamie Mason.
5. With Billy, Valerie Mizuhara gets ready to ride.
6. An interesting spectacle.
7. Surfers, Mark Brown, Leroy Wagner, Wilson Lee, Ken Ivy, and Andy Jonson pose for a picture.
8. On top of the world stands, Jason Hughes.
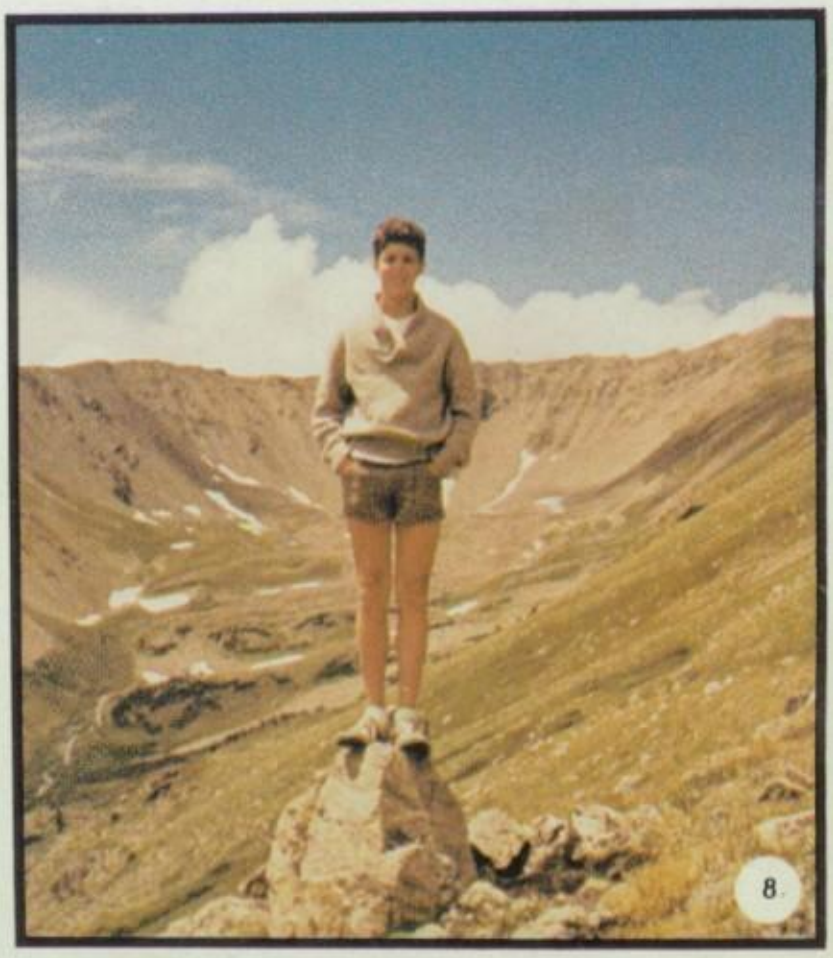
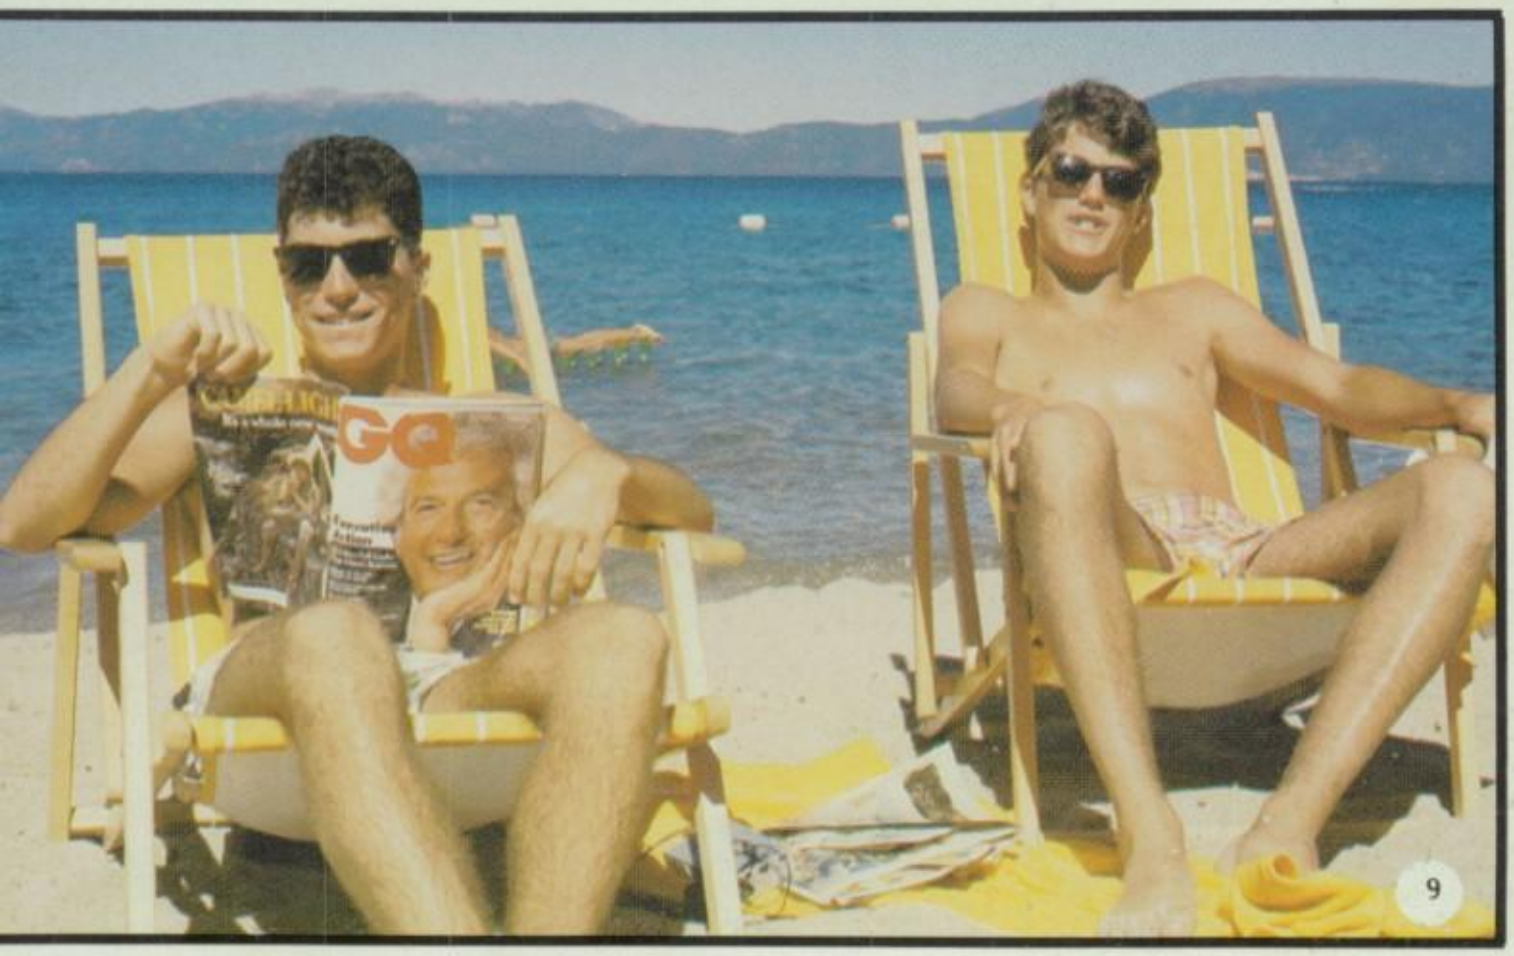
9. The Berridge brothers buffed bods on the beach.
10. The path of destruction.





Get Out Your Compasses

On August 29, as is the case every year at Aragon, the Freshmen students were officially oriented with the Aragon Campus. By pacing 100 yards north from their point of origin at 35°, the Freshmen found their way to the little theater where the orientation began. After speeches by various campus leaders, the students were taken on a tour of the Aragon Campus. The Service Commission and Spirit Squad, as always, were cheerful and helpful to those students who had a harder time orientating themselves. After the tours, the students were treated to a hot dog lunch. Since the young Freshman had a hard time finishing the scads of food, the generous football team was able to help avoid the dangers of leftovers. After the meal came the fun and games tug-of-war, balloon tosses, and donut eating contests. By the end of the day, most freshmen had learned a lot about Aragon, but, more importantly, they had discovered what a good time Aragon could be.

1. Trying to decode their schedules, these freshmen look on intently.
2. Head of the Spirit Squad, Michelle O'Rourke, introduces herself to the freshmen class.
3. Skatboards make great tables.
4. Elections Commissioner, Caroline Windell, draws interest toward freshmen elections.
5. An impressive turnout . . .
6. A great lunch was prepared, thanks to some wonderful mothers.
7. Wait, you're not a freshmen.

The Night The KMEL Called

It was the same this year as it is every year; Aragon High School started off the fall term with the always fun and successful KMEL Dance. All of the regular fun was experienced at this terrific annual Student Body fundraiser. There was the music, courtesy of the KMEL, the food, courtesy of the student government, and there was the fun, courtesy of the Aragon student body. For Freshmen students it was an excellent mixer as well. There was a chance to meet new people and reaquaint with old friends for everyone. The music ended at 10:30 P.M. with the typical Aragon feeling that the dance had been a very enjoyable success.

1. Rockin out . . . Dolly Brizzolara and friend.
2. a great night for dancing.
3. A slow dance between fast ones provides needed rest.
4. There's a much better perspective from the floor.
5. "I wear my sunglasses at night."
6. Break dancing . . .

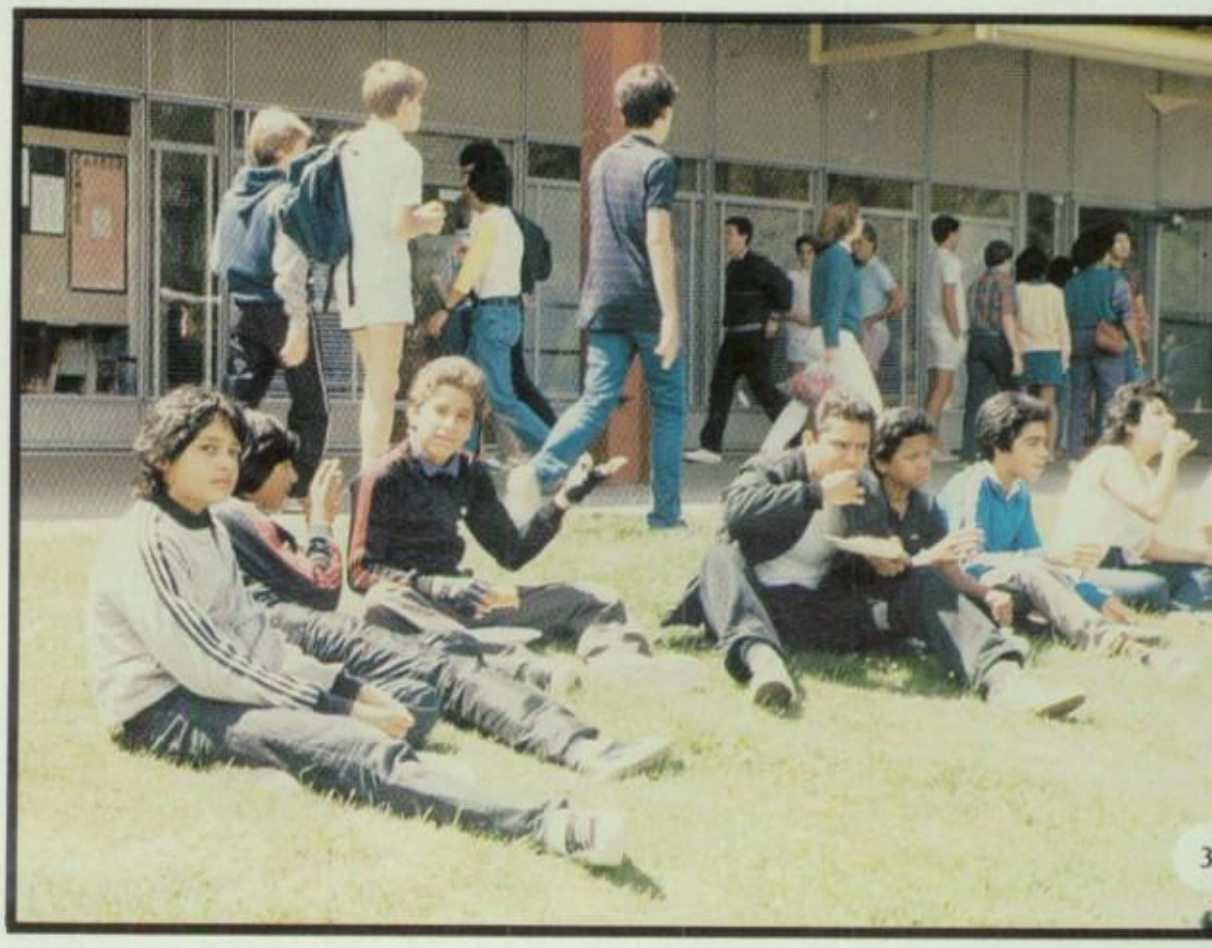
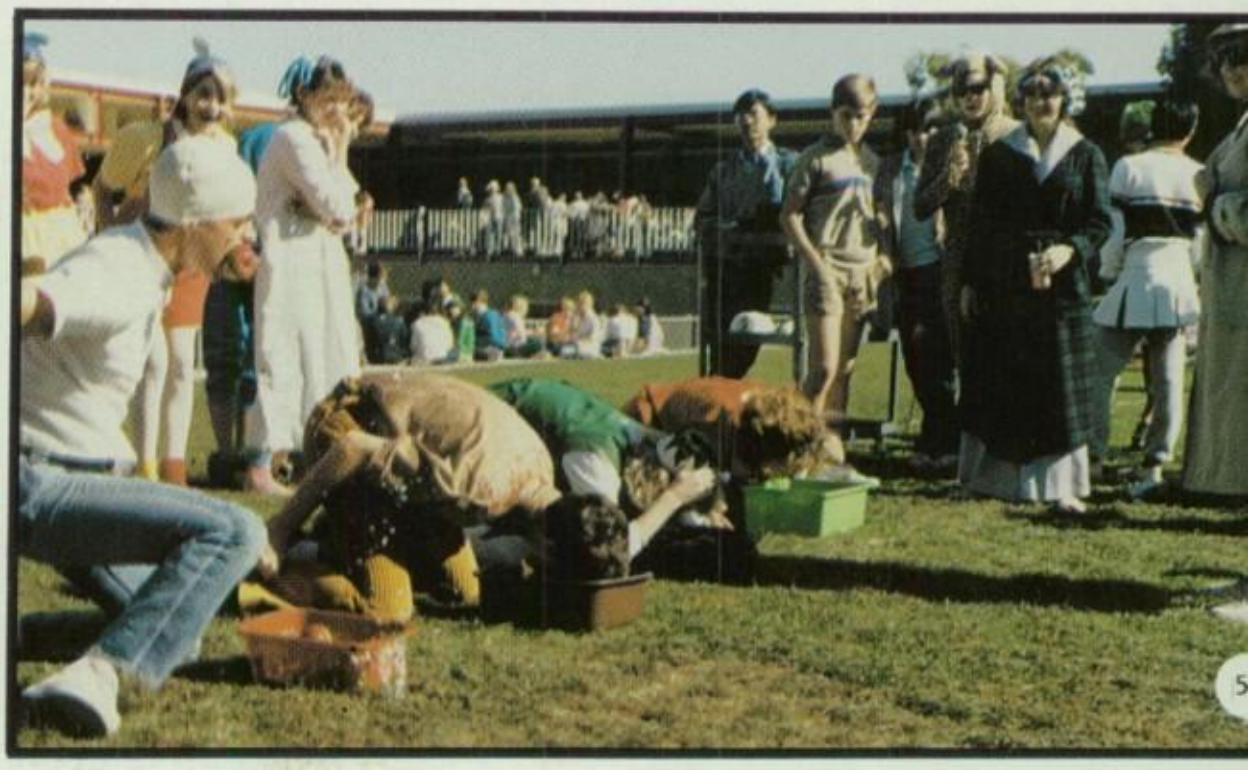
1. "No, I won't go to lunch with you!"
2. A casual talk on the rail.
3. "Dejeuner Sur L'herbe"
4. Entertainment during lunch.
5. Some people will do anything for an apple.
6. A little lunchtime business.
7. Checking out the job opportunities.
8. Eagerly anticipating their lunchtime meeting.
9. Trying to find the service commission meeting.





Lunchtime Activities

Dying To Dance

It had been a long time since Aragon High School had sponsored an informal dance. And, the school was dying to dance. The spirit, liveliness, and excitement of the girl's gym on the night of January 11 confirmed this hypothesis. This Sophomore sponsored dance proved to be very successful. Mar the end of the regular grading period, dance took place on the Friday prece first semester dead week giving the danc title: the Dead Week Dance. With sounds of the Music Masters, the Ara student body danced the night away.

The dance took the place of the traditi Sadie Hawkin's Dance that is usually the fall. Students felt it was an excellent y to start the rigorous final schedule ich the following two weeks held in store. usic, fun, and friends helped to ease the n of the studying that lay ahead. It was, leed, a great seditive to the mad finals steria that always arises around that ie.

1. Danny Bernard having fun.
2. Taking a rest from dancing, Joey Heath poses for the camera.
3. Always taking the pictures, Dave Weinberg finally gets his picture in the yearbook. What a guy!
4. Sally Bennett and Renaldo Dizon dancing to the music of the Music Masters.
5. Sarah Fricke and Dave Ellertson lookin' good.
6. Service Commissioners - Joel Sawacki, Bob Bennett, Ryan Beachkofski and Andy Cook always there when you need them.
7. "Hey, watch us dance!"
8. Oscar Siquenza getting into the swing of things.

Tripping The Light Fantastic

What would you say to an elegant night on the town- dining, dancing, and good friends? Well, many Aragonians said "Yes" when they attended the unparalleled Grid extravaganza held at the renowned Sheraton Palace in San Francisco. For all those who spent the evening tripping the light fantastic, the grid proved to be more than enjoyable. How could you have resisted? I mean, it's the next best thing to "Falcon Crest" and cold pizza!

1. Tripping to the light fantastic, Mike Donovan and Heidi Golnick dance the night away.
2. Dancing was fun and so were the dinner conversations.
3. Winter Formal King and Queen Bob Bennett and Liesl Copland.
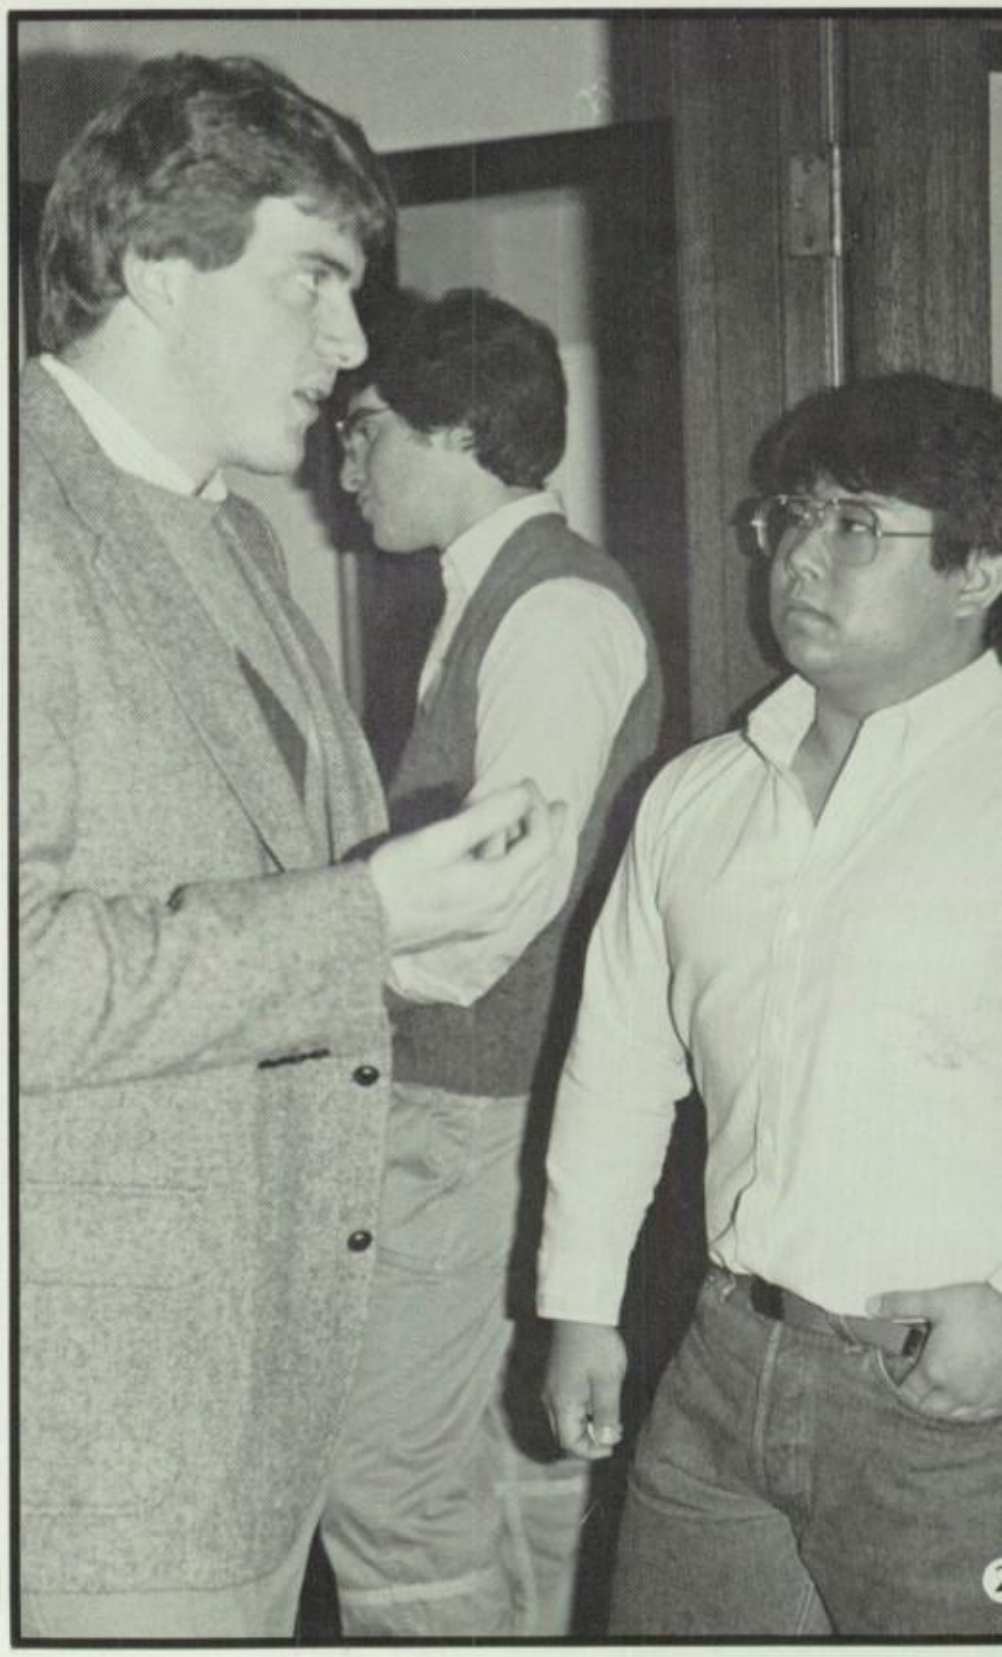
4. "You guys had better smile, this is going in the next issue of "People Magazine."
5. "Oh, Jun, you're so handsome." "I know baby ... I know!"

Home For The Holidays



Holidays are traditionally known as the time of year for social gatherings. This year was no exception. On December 23, graduates from Aragon who were home for the Holidays as well as current Seniors met at Mrs. Chiossi's house for her annual Holiday Happening. Seniors heard first hand information about their future schools from those who were attending them as freshmen. In the true spirit of Holiday festivity, the college freshmen shared experiences and gave advice to the curious Seniors. As the Seniors listened they formed their own ideas of what college life was all about. By the end of the evening the Seniors were eagerly anticipated college life, and were anxious to bring in the new year.

1. There is nothing like a reunion with good old friends.
2. This is where you really get the short and tall of the college scene.
3. Why are we smiling . . . because we are college studs.
4. There was even time for a birthday celebration for a Yale man.
5. Some things are better left as secrets.

Focusing On The Government

For the students who participated in the Close-up program in 1984 and 1985, the trips to Washington D.C. both proved to be exciting and fascinating experiences. This was the first year that Aragon offered two Close-up trips. The first trip, which took place in December, was highlighted by an exciting day on Capitol Hill and two spectacular days in colonial Williamsburg. The second trip, which also included a day at the Capitol, took place while Congress was in session in February. This trip focused mainly on getting a closer view of Congress in action. Of course, both of the trips included many interesting and educational seminars which were given by experts in various fields and dealt with controversial subjects, such as defense policies, the role of the media, and economics. The Aragon students who visited Washington D.C. especially enjoyed meeting the students from the other states that participated in the program. They unanimously agreed that making new friends and getting a closer view of our government's processes were definitely the highlights of both trips.

SPORTS

Aragon Depth

Pressure, hustle, and consistency were key words in the description of Aragon's 1984-85 Varsity Basketball team. Coached by Ron Bolin, the team was ready for action and ready to put the pressure on their opponents. Using fast break strategy, the players were quick and prepared to handle the stress of being a mere eleven player team. Consistent, also, were the players in their precision shooting and in their traditional Aragon victories. Coach Bolin said the 1984-85 basketball team had more depth than any previous team. This asset was due to the majority of junior team members that would continue playing on next year's team; as a result, the team displayed concentration and commitment. All in all, the Aragon Varsity Basketball team played in style throughout the season.

1. An intimidating force, Larry Hines shows his powerful vertical jump and soft touch to a lesser opponent.
2. Jumping ever so high, Richard Pryor fights for the opening tip off.
3. Left all alone, Russell Pryor lays in an easy bucket.
4. Being oh so elusive, Arthur "Magic" Maske shoots while the defense is left looking the wrong way.
5. Junior Richard Pryor shows why the fast break was a lethal weapon in the Aragon arsenal.
6. Smoother than smooth, Dave "The Charge" Good lets the opponent have a taste of his sweet fall-away jumper.

1. Point guard Chuck Hwang pushes the ball up the court against a baffled opponent.
2. While scanning the action, Russell Pryor contemplates using his smooth set shot.
3. Super leaping Rick Heron shows off his ominous vertical leap and the bedazzled foe can only gasp in awe.
4. After snagging the defensive rebound, the team springs into action with its run and gun offense.
5. The Aragon guards get ready to run one of the many complex offenses created by the intense strategist Ron Bolin.

No Dribble

The Aragon Don frosh-soph basketball team faired well in their season even though they confronted some tough competition. There was a positive attitude on the team which helped to intensify the players' spirit. The team's success was a result of hardwork and rigorous practices everyday. Practices focused on many aspects of the game ranging from offense and defense strategies to the fundamentals. The hardwork the team put in payed off with its success in it's games. There was a distinct sense of teamwork among the players enabling them to take pride in their accomplishments. The players by all means achieved all standards of excellence.

1. Form and technique is constantly worked on.
2. Wow! It's still going!
3. A couple teammates sweating it out in a vigorous game of one-on-one.
4. "It's supposed to go in the hoop, not over the backboard."

A Tradition Of Excellence

Carrying on the Aragon tradition of excellence in basketball, the girl's team had another victorious season this year. Starting out very strong, the girls were surefire contenders for post-season play. Team cooperation, hard practices, and excellent coaching all contributed to the team's winning season. The girls were able to work well as a team, thus enhancing their already excellent individual skills. School spirit also helped the girls, as Aragon saw a revival of fans at least at the girls' basketball games to help cheer them on to victory. Speed and agressiveness combined to assist the teams, both varsity and fresh-soph, with their mission to reach the top and make it to the CCS finals. Led by several talented and experienced players in the regular season games, the girls were able to participate in post-season play. Although they lost their first post-season game, the girls can still truly say they led a successful season.

1. Up in the air for another Aragon basket.
2. J.V. BASKETBALL: Front Row: Regina Dimare, Tammy Nelson, Missy Raffo. Second Row: Julietta Ruiz, Kelly Faulkner, Linda Vaulter, Kathy Cunningham, Tupuo Sekona.
3. Will it go in?
4. And the jump ball goes to Aragon.
5. The team strives toward victory, as the coaches look on nervously.
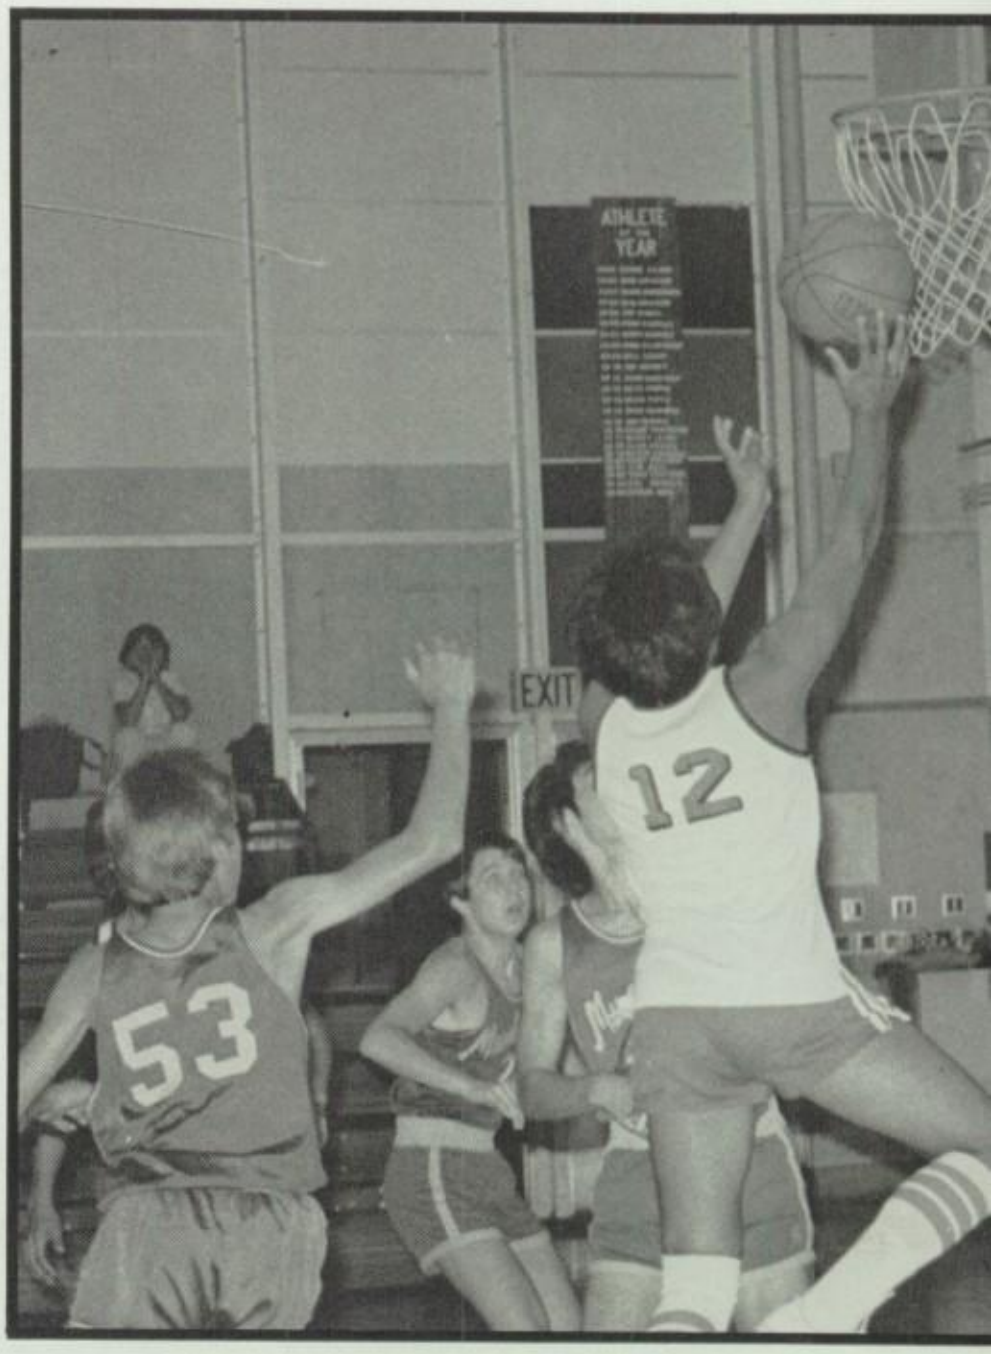
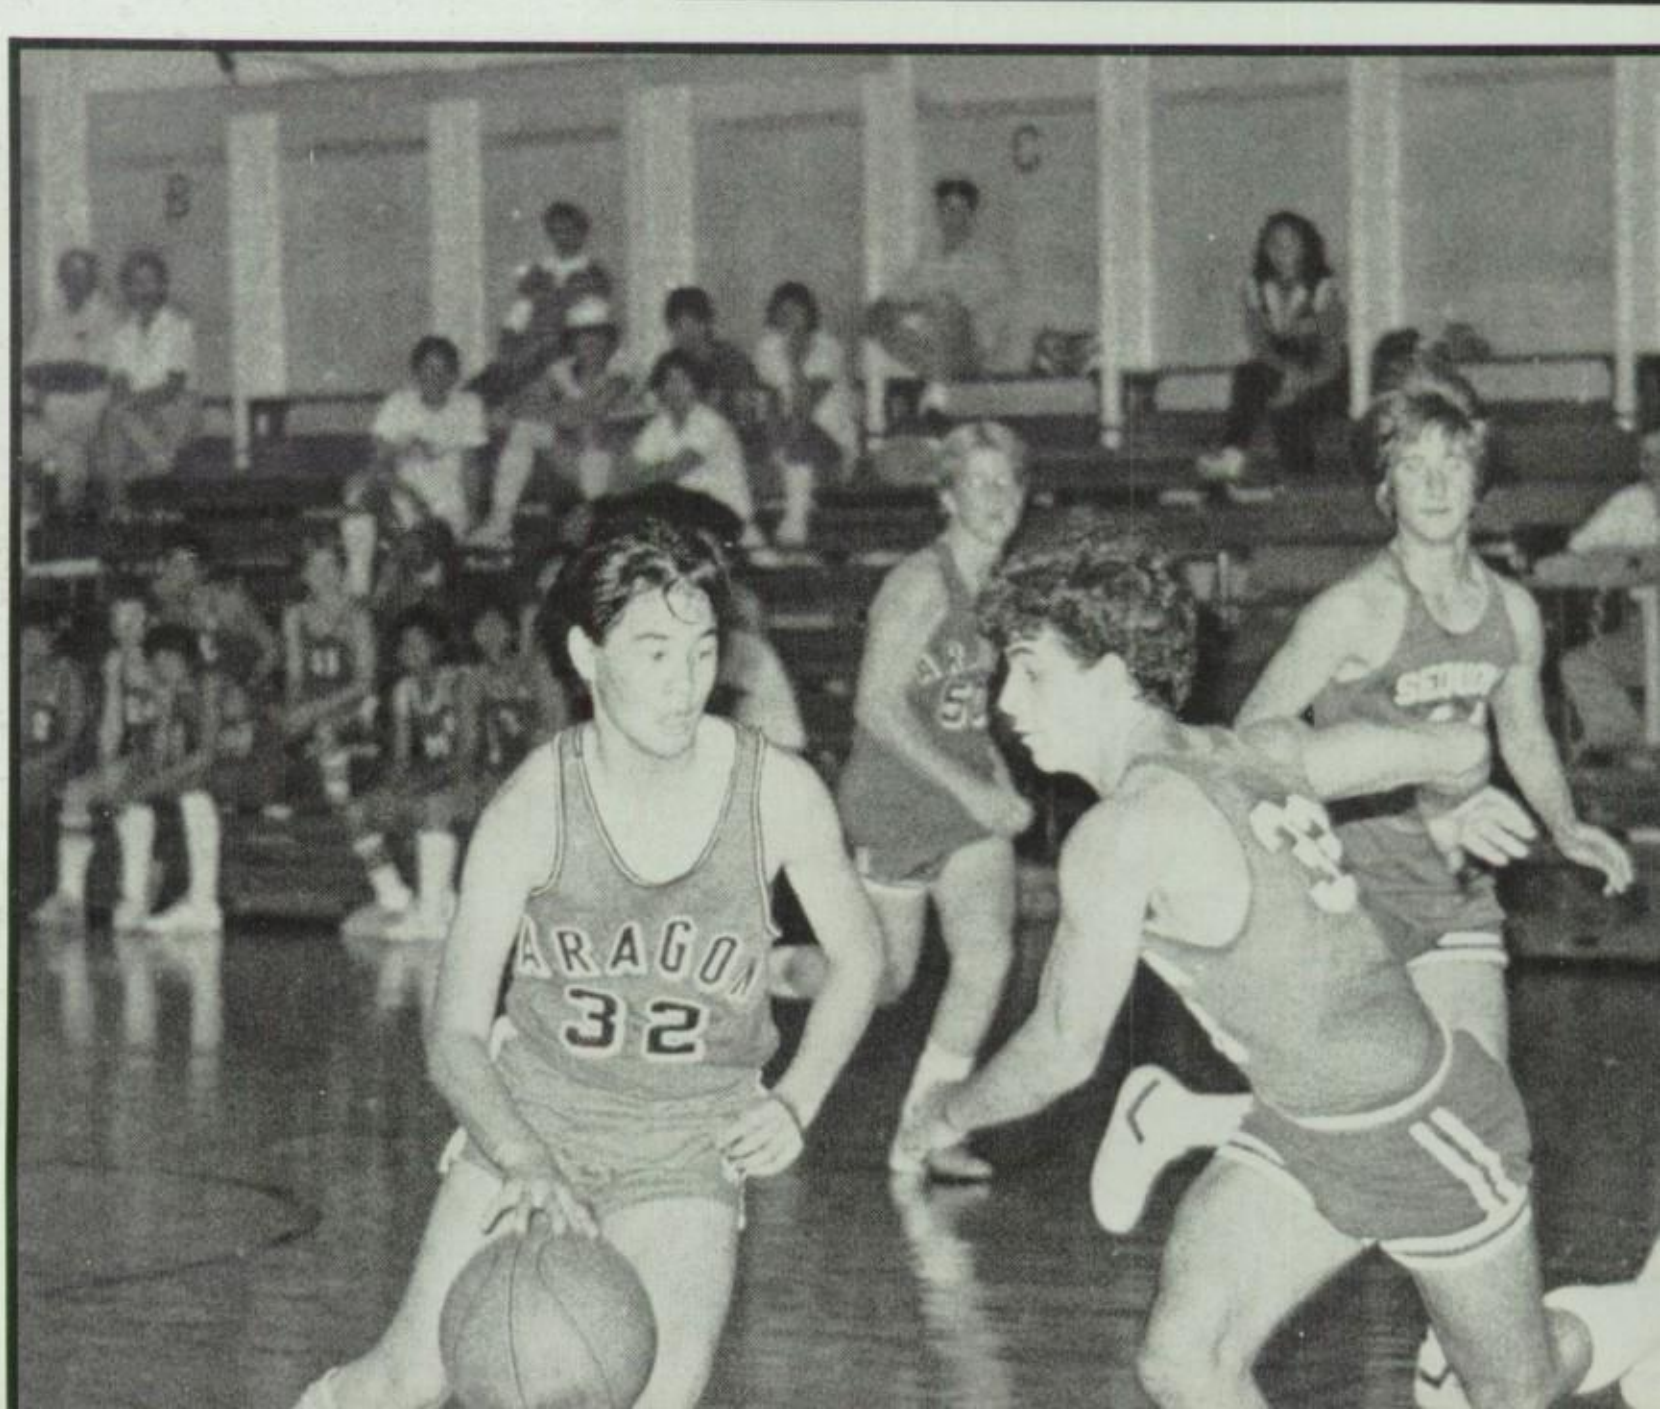
7. Another perfect shot in for a basket.

Show Of Strength

The newly condensed C/D Basketball Team dribbled its way through a season of growth in 1984. Possessing much youthful inexperience, the team spent the year learning the fundamentals of the sport. Good defensive playing was the goal that the smaller Dons worked towards. Therefore, skills such as man-to-man and team defense were stressed. Learning to accept their level of ability while also, trying to improve was a major strength for the team. Each team member had the will and determination that was necessary to overcome his weakness. As a team, their positive attitude and strong drive was beyond comparison.





1. Overwhelming opponents with his incredible jumping ability, Arturo Lopez drives to the basket.
2. Opposing players have trouble trying to stop the constant attack of the Dons.
3. The brains of the operation, Coach Bolin, surveys the opposing team.
4. Play is suspended as eager players eye the tip off.
5. Scanning the floor, Kevin Ikuma runs one of many complex plays.
6. Jump Vic!
7. C/D BASKETBALL: Front Row: Tod Covarubias, Lester Kwok, Tim Hilliard, Randy Powley, Alan Kawahara, Eddie "Ice" Croft, Tim Clarke, Victor Wu, Walter Chao, Coach Ron Bolin, Second Row: Arturo Lopez, Martin Wall, Eric Treinen, Greg Schultz, Dara Chafik, Kevin Ikuma, Peter Ho, Chris Ratkovic, Nick Sarles, Kevin Freid, Kevin Toh.

On The Road Again . . .

For yet another season, the boys' Cross-Country team set out onto the road with high spirits and enthusiasm. It was a team full of physical and mental strength as well as leadership and self-discipline. Also, the team members managed to better enhance the qualities of their own individualities.

The team as a whole was a talented body that accomplished much more than seemed possible. Since the older, more experienced runners set an impressive example, the younger runners followed up in quite fashionable style. The hours of effort in practice were displayed nicely by these male running fanatics, as their lasting ambition and zeal paid off in many ways.

An ancient proverb says that you have to put something into the task at hand to get anything out of it. The 1984 boys' cross-country team exerted all the drive they had, and they received their just rewards.

No Pain, No Gain

Hard work and dedication were the key ingredients contributing to the successful season of the 1984-1985 Girls' Cross-Country team. Many talented newcomers and veterans added the depth and unity needed for a strong, threatening team. Sweating through strenuous workouts averaging 3 to 6 miles a day, the girls' team gradually built the stamina needed to overcome their foes in various practice dual meets throughout the three month season. The Varsity and Junior Varsity teams "paced" the way to victory at the PAL finals culminating an excellent season.

1. Before an intense workout, Cathy Cunningham stretches out . . . ooh!
2. Both Glenna Auerback and Susie Hearn know victory is coming their way.
3. With all her might, runner Sally Bennett takes long strides to beat the clock.
4. With a look of determination, Linda Sell dashes towards the finish line.

Achievements Of A Promising Team

Losing several key players from a championship contending team would seem to be a major problem for most high school football teams, but not for this extraordinary one. Returning numerous experienced players and adding valuable incoming players, the highly regarded 1984 A.H.S. Varsity Football Team, strong in every area, was awesome as it strove to be even better than any previous Aragon team had ever been before. This exceptionally well-talented and deep football monster consistently overwhelmed and devoured many an opponent on its way to a victorious and extremely successful P.A.L. season. The high expectations of enthusiastic fans and preseason predictions were truly fulfilled in that this nearly invincible football squad had very few letdowns as it hurdled most every obstacle thrown in its way. The superb season was the result of the combination and mixture of good, hard practices and great performances on gamedays characterized by the traditional intensity, unity, and spirit that accompanies Aragon football teams. Much of the credit was also due to the team's guiding force; one of the stablest, most experienced, most qualified, and best coaching staffs in this area. In the end, the results were well-worth the tremendous efforts for all involved; the potentially best team in Aragon school history, transformed its preseason reputation into post-season reality, and by doing so, added to the pride and joy of the entire Aragon community.

Ready . . . Hike!

It was fourth down, the score was tied, and less than a minute was left. Will the Frosh/Soph Aragon football team have achieved victory? Of course! Daily three hour football practices filled with stretching, conditioning, and drills inevitably paid off for the Frosh/Soph players. Coached by former Aragon player Steve Nelson and three assistants, the players did not only "get buffed", they also went over plays and the mental aspects of preparing for a game. Coach Nelson felt that the high intensity of the practices contributed greatly to the many victories of the Frosh/Soph team. His goal of getting most sophomore players ready for Varsity became a reality. In many ways the 1984-85 Frosh/Soph football season was a true success.

Anyone For Tennis?

Love was only off the court for the Aragon Dons Girls' Tennis team. With much vim and vigor, the tennis team practiced after school for two hours every day, improving their skills. The new coach Rod Harro brought unity and enthusiasm as well as strength and fundamentals to the team. This resulted in enhanced all-around skills of serve and volley, baseline, and net play. As for spirit, the returning players showed the way for the newcomers which inevitably produced a stronger team. An interested coach, student body support and a great team were the ingredients for a super year!

What Goes Up Must Come Down

The 1984-85 volleyball team maintained a positive attitude and good spirit throughout the season, despite the teams "ups" and "downs". As a result of budget cuts, the frosh-soph team was cancelled this year. However, because of the amount of people that were interested in playing, a decision was made to make two varsity teams, a Varsity "A" and a Varsity "B". After that was decided, the two Varsity teams worked together during practices on their various strategic skills such as serving, passing, and hitting. Strong serves enabled the team to successfully produce both offense and defense in game situations. League competition was challenging, but since the girls were persistent, they produced many successful rallies which raised the team's morale. Although the team played only ten season games, the girls consistently worked hard to make each game better than the previous one. By the end of the season the team members were proud of their performances and their contributions to the teams successes. All in all, despite the budget cuts and the challenging competition, the team remained unified and spirited throughout the 1984-85 season.

'84 Splash

With backstroke and breaststroke as their strongest events, the Aragon Girl's Swim team proved itself to be a winner. Being the only girl's team in the PAL, the swimmers displayed the spirit behind Aragon athletics. Practices occurring both before and after school helped with stroke correction, while meets taking place twice a week strengthened endurance. Coach Dan McGarry felt that the spirit, enthusiasm, and support shared by the team members was instrumental in making Girl's Swimming one of the finest teams at Aragon. These top-notch atheletes exemplified the style and commitment of Aragon sports.

Making Waves

Aragon's boys' swim team spent endless hours of dedicated practice to become one of the top teams in the Penninsula Athletic League this spring. Before the crack of dawn, the team arrived at Aragon for a strenuous morning workout with weights. Weekdays after school the team swam for two long, hard hours, during which they concentrated on sprints, endurance, distance, starts, and turns. The hours of work and practice paid off in the successful season, and the team finished as one of the top teams in the league. With many experienced returning swimmers, as well as a few new swimmers with outstanding potential, the team went on to excel and place highly in the C.C.S. championships. The boys' swim team and its coach worked with determination and a positive attitude to become an excellent and unified team at the top of its league.

When Boys Fly

(to the tune of "When Doves Cry")

Dig if you will the picture
Of Boys J.V. Soccer '85
The strength of the team was obvious
Can all you Dons now—can you picture this?

Dream if you can a grassy field
An ocean of players in bloom
Young freshmen were very abundant
But sophomores were
Yes, sophomores remained there too.

With last years' best players moved to varsity
It was predicted the team would be weak
But a newly gained coach was an asset
Then the team was too tough
The team was too tough to beat
Maybe it was the defensive play
Maybe the speed in their feet
Why do we question their stunning play
This is what it looks like when boys fly.

Stomping Out The Opponent

The Aragon Girls' Varsity and Junior Varsity Soccer teams kicked the 1984-1985 season off to an excellent start. The J.V. team moved toward a very successful season due especially to many strong new freshmen who added strength, spirit, and depth to the team. The strong point of the varsity team was its outstanding defense, which helped the team gain many victories and which also added unity to the team. Both teams showed tremendous dedication, as they practiced every day after school and even during school holidays. The hard work paid off and both teams learned better communication on the field and worked together to beat many of the top teams in the league and move toward C.C.S. Knowledgeable and dedicated coaches and a unified team helped the girls maintain a positive attitude for an overall outstanding season.

Don't Mess

Ambition and self determination proved to be the keys to the Aragon Don Wrestling team's success. There was a high morality level among the players which helped them develop into a better team. Practices were rigorous; workouts began with calasthenics and push ups followed by practicing such basic moves and techniques as takedowns, stand ups, and cradles. The team maintained its endurance level by running as part of its conditioning warm down. The action for the came in its weekly matches and tournaments. Fortunately the team was not affected by the athletic cuts because of fund raising to support its program. By the end of the season the team's hardwork was accounted for in a successful season.

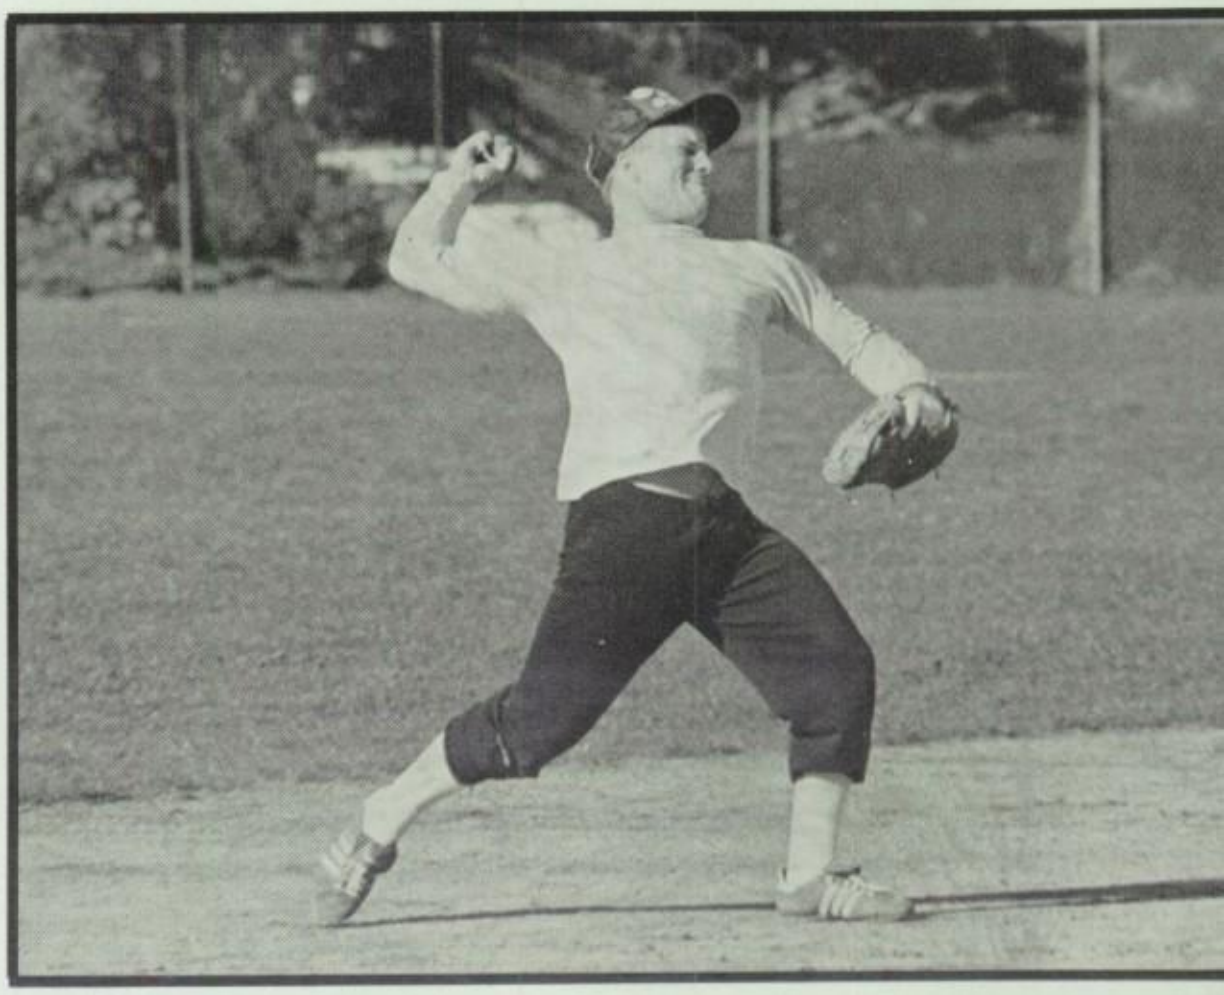
Play Ball!



As the spring semester started at Aragon, so did the Frosh-Soph and Varsity baseball season. The new and returning players from both teams put on their uniforms, picked up their hats, and headed out onto the field to play some serious ball. The Dons, both Frosh-Soph and Varsity, practiced long and hard with hopes of becoming one of the best high school baseball teams around. The players' dedication flourished on the field along with their positive attitude and enthusiasm toward the game. Even though the Dons may not have won every game they played, each player, whether on the Frosh-Soph or the Varsity team, gained a valuable experience in sportsmanship. And though both baseball teams may be proud, most of the Dons' fans would probably remind them that someone forgot to sell the hot dogs and beer at the games.

Setting A Quick Pace

From the starting blocks to the finish line, the Aragon Girl's Track and Field Team was ready to win by working hard and training diligently. With coaching geared towards both the physical and mental aspects of intense competition, the athletes knew early into the season that a strong team, having the needed depth and ability, was quickly developing. The talented group started off on the right foot, breaking school records before season competition even began. Already high goals were set-namely the PAL finals and the prestigious state meets. Intense, muscle-straining practices were made bearable by the knowledge that the hard work and spirited dedication would lead directly to a great record and outstanding achievements in season competition. Unity and pride helped set the pace, and the Girl's Track and Field Team could not be stopped.

Out In Front

Coming off extremely successful seasons, the Aragon Varsity and Frosh-Soph Track and Field Teams, returned with zealous anticipation and high hopes. Such confidence exuded by the tracksters, however, was not so overwhelming as to take their competition lightly. These athletes trained diligently in an effort to achieve both personal and team goals. The hardwork and dedication put forth by the members during the preseason, as well as the regular season, were well rewarded as each participant was prepared both mentally and physically to burst out of the blocks at the beginning of the season.

With such a fast start, goals were bound to be achieved as PAL opponents were left in the footsteps of the Aragon Boys Track Team. With the important contributions of every member, the Aragon Boys Track and Field Teams were sure to be seen breaking for the finish line and the championshp.

Shades Of McEnroe

If you were lucky enough to have observed some of the members of the 1985 Aragon tennis team, you might have thought that you were watching John McEnroe or Ivan Lendl. The extreme amount of stamina, effort, skill, drive, and emotion in every player showed that each of them had big plans for tennis in the future. The Varsity team was backboned by several returning experienced upperclassmen and sparked by the presence of some new younger talent. The frosh-soph team was headed by the young athletes who plan to be taking over the varsity spots next year. Determination and eagerness in the younger players was combined with the experience and rationality of the older players to give Aragon one of the finer teams on the peninsula. Although the greater bay area is one of the best places to find future tennis stars, the Don netters set their goals high for the season and knew they had the means of accomplishing them. Some day one of these fine tennis players might even win the U.S. Open or Wimbledon, and future generations of Aragon students will use rackets and wear shoes with his autograph emblazoned across them.

The Psychadelic Soccer Psyche . . .

It was like doing a psychoanalysis on the mind of a psychopathic madman. His cerebral cortex was a maze of absurd paraphernalia and animal instincts. His pulse could be felt from across the room, and his eyes seemed to peer through your very soul. Concentration, determination, and annihilation could be seen all over his face. Every muscle in his body seemed to twitch with each exhale. The mud on his uniform was beginning to harden on his cold, wet skin. Time was of no relevance to such a being, and it was as if he weren't even in our dimension. He spoke not, but his appearance told more than any words could have. Suddenly, he arose from his seat, and he towered over me. Gazing down at me, he picked a blade of grass from his hair, wiped the mud off the end of his nose, removed a cleat from his mouth, and said, "Aragon Soccer: it's not just a game, it's an adventure." He disappeared into the steam of the locker room showers . . .

A Bird In The Hand Is Worth Two In The Net

The lady Dons should be called the, "Goodminton" team because of their success in the spring of 1985. The birdies flew in fury as our varsity team worked their way to a competitive edge in the P.A.L. The winning efforts were well balanced among the entire squad. Coach Ms. Thompson developed ladder play that rang up intra-team competition. Those at the top deserved their lofty status. Training was another keystone to an ardous season. This training included court runs along with stretching exercises. The spirit of the team was high and encouragement abundant in the Aragon gymnasium. The close friendship formed will certainly carry over in years to come.

Young And Restless

Under the guidance and lofty expectations of their coach, the relatively young Aragon Golf Team eagerly awaited to tee off its season. Such youth and zeal characterized the ranks of the enthusiastic, junior and sophomore dominated team, while such disadvantages as inexperience were diminished by way of lengthy yet constructive practices at local golf courses. Through personal sacrifices and with driving desires in working toward their aspirations, the optimistic hopes of the ambitious and talented players were fulfilled as they adroitly manuevered through the tough obstacles of the P.A.L. circuit and shot for the league championship and a C.C.S. tourney berth. On the fairways and greens of the Peninsula Golf and Country Club and various other picturesque courses in the area, Aragon golfers displayed that they were capable of restoring the former reputation of being one of the prep powers of Northern California, an honor that Aragon golf teams of a decade and a half ago once possessed.

Hard Work Pays Off

Aragon's 1984-85 softball team had a successful season and a record to prove it. In order to face the tough competition, the girls practiced their skills everyday. Batting, sliding, fielding, short hops, pop flies, and base running were all parts of the daily work-outs.

Even though the weather did not always cooperate, the girls were consistently working on their individual positions. In addition, the ten pre-season practice games allowed the girls use their skills in game situations as well as to get an idea of what they had to face in the season games. After all of the practices and hard work, the girls managed to pull out a successful season.

Look, Up In The Sky . . .

It's a bird. It's a plane. It's a frog? No, it's an Aragon gymnast doing a triple back flip with a twist. What an incredible dismount your probably saying, but that's just par for the course for this group of emerging male gymnastics stars. Some persons think that gymnastics is what Jane Fonda and Richard Simmons do on television, and only old ladies or persons desiring to lose weight participate in it. However, the Aragon tradition of fine gymnastics was one that was carried on by the 1985 boys gymnastics team, which took leaps and bounds in success to become one of the finer teams in the area. Many of the team members were new comers eager to learn the ropes, and combined with the talent and experience of the veteran gymnasts, the team showed that not only Mary Lou Retton attracts the crowds and the Wheaties eaters.

If you mistook the boys gym for the Hall of Justice, and you thought that the boys team was none other than the Super Friends, it was an honest mistake. Gymnastics is quickly becoming one of the more popular spectator sports in the country, and the 1985 team showed many reasons why this fact is indeed a valid one. However, if white chalk on your hands and tape on your fingers doesn't thrill you, if you find discipline a hard thing to swallow, and if you don't enjoy being air born for more than a second, then either boycott like a communist or just wait to watch next year.

The Lowdown

Girls gymnastics 1985 — the story. The boy's gym five days a week — the place. 2:00 to 4:00 — the time. Little did these unsuspecting gymnasts know that they were being watched and monitored. As the junior varsity girls prepared for their compulsory events by practicing the standard routines on each piece of equipment, much youthful potential was noted. The varsity team members, being a bit more serious, practiced very hard to sharpen up their own routines for competition. The girls varsity team — extremely strong. Seniors? — none. Freshmen? — only a few. These teams of sophomores and juniors pulled together to reach their goal of having an excellent team and not just excellent individuals. The top goal — the PAL Championship. The conclusion — the Girls 1985 Gymnastic Teams had a great time in the struggle towards the top. As for next year — only the shadow knows.

The Governing Factor

Remember "Where's the beef?" or "Flame broiled, not fried"? No, they weren't part of the hamburger wars, they were just a few of the many campaign posters which kicked off the spring student government term. The spring student government guided Aragon through yet another year, starting up where the fall government left off. In their meetings, they were able to cover many important topics concerning the school and its students. The student council focused in on boosting the spirit and morale of the entire student body, not to mention thinking up themes and working out the financial aspects of the various dances. The student, government which was made up of officers, delegates, and other representatives, was also faced with the task of creating fund-raisers for different sorts of activities. The student government members should be commended for their effort and their ability to look into the future to make the time being a little better for Aragon students.

We The People . . .

The fall semester of the 1984-1985 school year proved to be an important year in student government and student activities. During this period, goals were set to establish better communication among the entire student body and encourage student participation in activities. By selecting second period representatives the council was able to hear the opinions of the students who voiced what was important to them. The council supported all suggestions from the student body. As a result of greater emphasis on student involvement, school spirit was intensified and activities were extremely successful. In coordinance with the Activities Commission, the student body was able to partake in rallies, dances, fund raisers, and the returning Class of the Year competition. The council encouraged the participation of all students and clubs to become more influential in the decisions which effected the student body. As a result of active interest the first semester was a successful start for the school year.

"We've Got Spirit, Yes We Do!"

Having captured the "Spirit Stick" and many other high awards at camp, the 1984-85 Varsity Spirit Squad had good reason to shout. They incorporated all the new cheers and rally ideas they learned at camp with their own creativity and the result was fabulous. Crowd involvement increased games and other events. Many people also purchased the rooter poms, "weepuls", and new Aragon penants that the Spirit Squad sold. With more unity than ever, the squad worked together to encourage spirit in all areas of school, not simply for sports. The Varsity Cheerleaders, Lettergirls, Pom-Pon girls, and Mascots maintained their support of the atheletes of Aragon while also helping the whole student body to feel united and proud of their school.

Esprit!!!

The 1984-1985 Junior Varsity Lettergirls and Cheerleaders were a red and black sensation! The excitement began at spirit camp in the midst of summer, when the J.V. squad perfected their skill and technique. The girls displayed exceptional enthusiasm and energy at frequent rallies and games. The squad attained its ultimate goal of evoking crowd participation and of supporting to the utmost of their ability, Aragon's athletic teams. With unsurpassed leadership within the squad, they were able to organize many successful and highly profitable fundraisers. This spirited squad with refreshing ingenuity and unparalleled unity maintained a positive attitude and good sportsmanship to lead Aragon students and athletes through an exciting and successful year.

Working Towards Harmony

With daily instruction and many hours of diligent practice, the members of the Aragon Music Department refined and improved their musical skills, and were a major contributing factor to the spirit of Aragon. Composed of three groups, band, orchestra, and choir, the music department involved many talented, enthusiastic participants. Besides lending a spirited note at football and basketball games the band, as well as the orchestra and choir, also presented Winter concert, Spring concert, and participated in community events for various service organizations. Under the leadership of Mr. Mason, students of all abilities were able to work together to attain their goal-to experience the art of music while perfecting their skills.

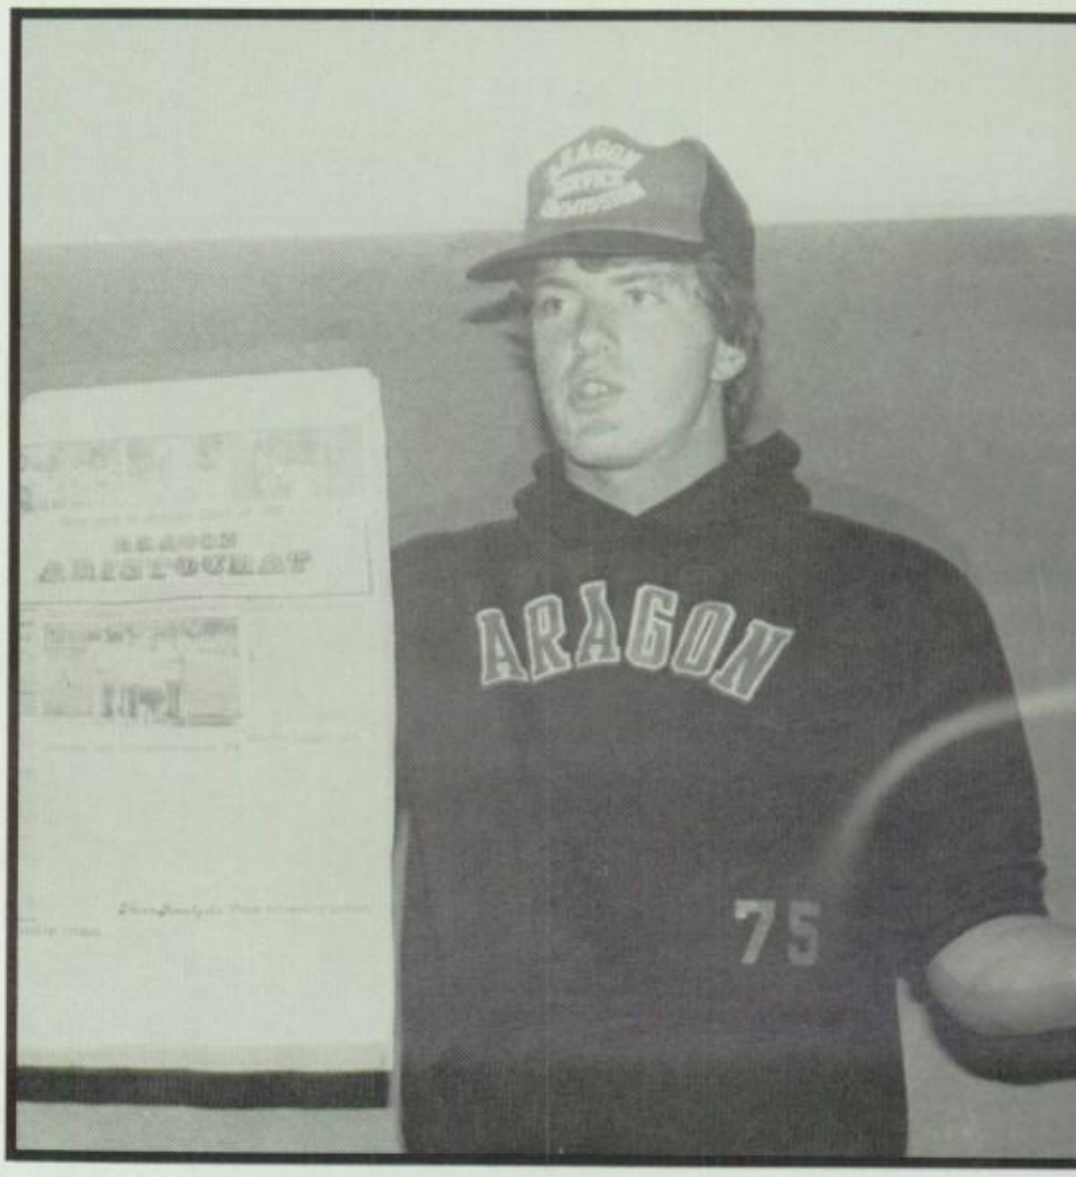
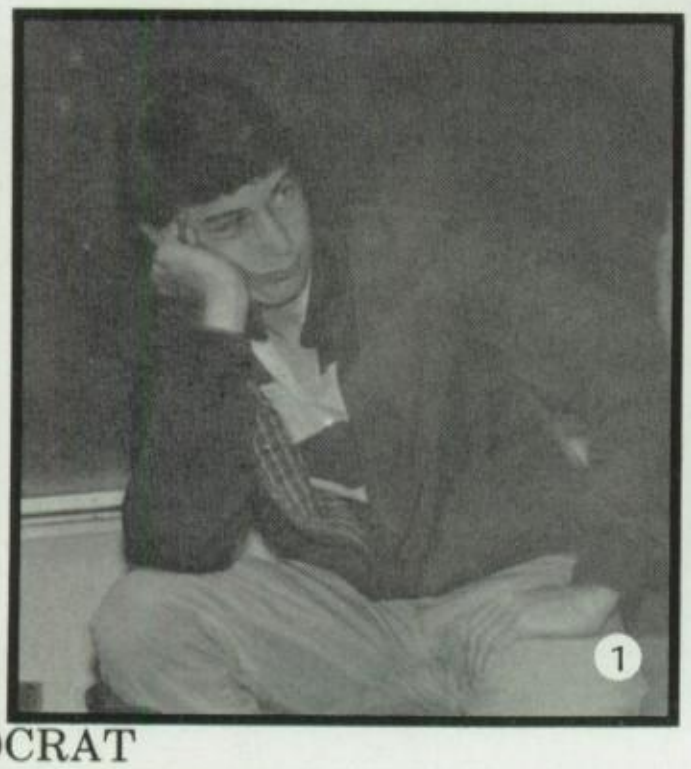
Campus News

For years Aragon students have been informed about campus news and outside news by The Aristocrat, the campus newspaper. Since the fall of 1980 when Dr. Fisher and Mr. Tingley became advisors, The Aristocrat has expanded from a tabloid to a full-sized newspaper. Estimated to be seen by about 3500 people per issue, The Aristocrat has grown from three or four issues a year to about nine issues a year. The success of the paper has helped to make it the best high school paper in the county, as judged by The San Mateo Times.

Even though The Aristocrat has an appealing full-sized format, it would only be a piece of paper without the dedicated and talented writers, photographers, and artists who made up the staff of sixty-three members. The staff met twice a week and individually over the course of the year to produce each issue which took approximately one month to complete. Each issue was mailed home for family and friends to enjoy, and the paper was also available to read at the local public library. Through the crative efforts of all the staff members, The Aristocrat has evolved into a symbol of pride for all Aragon students.





1. Wake up Mike! Meetings aren't that bad!!
2. Don't laugh, his name really is Spot Moskowitz.

The Rewards Of A Hard Day's Work

The Work Experience program at Aragon provided an excellent opportunity for students to earn money and school credits as well as experience. The program enabled students to learn valuable vocational skills and techniques, such as dealing with customers, handling finances, and maintaining a good attitude when working with people. The students became more knowledgeable of employment opportunities and job requirements. They were given the opportunity to explore the career world and to learn the importance of honesty, promptness, and efficiency on the j Students involved in the p gram attended meetings regul ly and were graded both by class instructor and their e ployer. What's That Hat For?

Someone might ask this question of one of the many juniors and seniors at Aragon who wear the red and black hats of the Service Commission. It is a hat of selected upperclassmen who show a special concern for the environment of Aragon. The commissioners are people who want to make our school cleaner and more enjoyable. However, their service is not just one of preventing problems in the student body, but doing it in a manner in which they enlighten their ideas to others.

Service Commission is also an ideal, unique leadership experience for all who participate in it. The members learn how to handle certain situations and people in ways that rule out bitterness. This experience will be valuable in college and further into the future.

Things are going well with the Commission, but that has not stopped them from striving for even smoother roads. They are developing even better relationships with students, faculty, and the Aragon community.

"Where did all the people go? . . . it must have been the hat."

"Excellence Through Unity"

The Parent-Teacher-Student Association, with the theme "Excellence through unity," was once again a major guiding force at Aragon. The PTSA started the year by sending a fund raising letter to all of the Aragon families, thus eliminating various fund raising events. The money collected by the letter was then used to improve the school and its environment.

Every month the Aragonette, the PTSA newsletter, was mailed home to inform parents and students of important upcoming events. A taped message of weekly happenings was also available, informing callers of such activities as "Aragon Get Acquainted Night" and the time of the monthly PTSA meetings.

The meetings were held either in the afternoon or in the evening to give all the PTSA members a chance to participate in making Aragon a better school, standing out from the rest.

Let's Hear It For Spirit!

Nothing to do? Bored? These statements were never heard on the Aragon campus because of the creative events meticulously planned by the 1984-1985 Activities Commission. During the group's productive Wednesday morning doughnut binges, the members, selected by student government, carefully filled the school social calender with dances, rallies, games, contests, and most importantly fun. Focusing on spirit, involvement, cooperation, and unity, the Activities Commission provided the motivation needed to create a campus with an aura of excitement and energy. This spirited fervor was evidenced by the tremendous student attendance at the events. One might say, in retrospect, that the Activities Commission fulfilled the other needs of the student by breaking the monotony of everyday school life with unique and fun activities for all.

Roots . . .

What is it that causes the common man to strive to discover his roots? Do we think that something is to be learned from the past? Well, numerous Aragon students believe that our heritage is indeed important. These students are those that form the Latin Club. From Julius and Augustus Caesar to Alexander the Great, from Homer to Aristotle and Sophocles, and from Greek to Roman mythology, these students journey through time to answer the many questions that arise in our language and in our society. While tasting the different cultural values of ancient people, the club/class members also have the opportunity to increase their scholastic aptitude. Work and play combined produced what we all know as rewards. The Latin Club is definitely rewarding.

Leaders Of The Future

As one of the largest and most popular organizations at Aragon High School, the Aragon Chapter of J.S.A. (Junior Statesmen of America) boasted a strong membership of about sixty student-delegates. This organization provided its members with tremendous learning opportunities and experiences. These Junior Statesmen learned proper debating skills and techniques in dealing with some of the major local, national, and international political issues of the year. Not only did this process improve the speaking abilities of those who participated, but it also increased their awareness of the fast-moving political world of today. Participants developed their newly acquired skills and knowledge during weekly Wednesday meetings at lunch, and then put them to use at state-wide conventions in such political breeding grounds as San Francisco and Sacramento. J.S.A. provided its debaters with the chance to discuss with one another the issues in the complicated and controversial world of politics. In America the number of politically unaware youth is surprising. The J.S.A. members contradicted these statistics in that students were encouraged to form their own opinions by drawing their own conclusions. In fact, what this fine group was doing, was creating, molding, and preparing the leaders of the future. Quite possibly, this group may have possessed the hotbed of tomorrow's politicians. Perhaps that oval office of that white house by the hill will someday be occupied by a former Aragonian.

Look For The Union Label

1985 was a year of action for the Black Student Union. The yearly goals such as motivating members, providing cultural awareness through activities, and providing a sounding board for member's thoughts and ideas were still all met. This year, the union members enjoyed fundraising for a couple of new activities while also having the usually scheduled guest speakers and spending time with their peers. Since one of the reasons that the Black Student Union exists is to provide for the education and advancement of black students, the club started a tradition of granting a scholarship each year to a worthy member for the purpose of advancing his/her education. The first recipient of the scholarship was the club president, Marlin Brown, who received money to help fund his Close-Up trip to Washington D.C.. Another activity started in 1985 was the making of a scrapbook on black historical leaders and events. The bi-monthly meetings even served as catalysts for promoting school attendance, teaching leadership skills, and planning involvement in the statewide B.S.U. conference. As an integral and active part of the Aragon student body, the Black Student Union thrived and grew in 1985.

Math, Mundane? Not At All!

What? Students working on math problems for the sheer enjoyment of it? How unheard of! Yes, this statement was true, as math students of varying ability levels gathered every other tuesday to increase their expanding knowledge of mathematics. During these lunchtime meetings, the Aragon Math Club discovered and explored the diverse and exciting dimensions of math not offered in regular classes. Under the guidance of the adviser and student leaders, the club's success was achieved through different aspects of math such as puzzles, logic problems, and games. Written problems were worked, reworked, and explained. Among the club's other activities were public demonstrations and competitions.

The enthusiastic approach of the extraordinary math-buffs of the Math Club in broadening their awareness in the field of math, brought a new meaning to mathematical studies. These high-energy level math proteges associated learning with enjoyment as they proved that math can be fun, indeed!

Brain Sports

The Aragon Math Team, provided Aragon math students with a chance to represent their school through the use of their math skills by competing against other schools and their students within the district. These spirited math enthusiasts and whizzes represented Aragon's Math Department in a competition for the coveted first place trophy through dual meets. At these meets members were given problems of varying degrees to solve. The criteria of speed and accuracy was used to score teams. A running score of all the schools was kept throughout the entire season and the team with the most points took the championship home.

This was what the aspiring math team aimed for. Monthly training sessions provided members with practice and the proper tools to compete with the best. The hardwork, effort, and dedication put into the finer details of math, paid off for these talented young mathematicians, as they turned in fine performance after fine performance. The team with its competitors, was able to assert itself as well as the Aragon Math Department among the district's finest. Aragon was as well-represented in the classrooms, mentally as it had been on the playing fields, physically.

The Existentialist Hypothesis On Conditional Probability:

Following countless hours of complex research and fiestas, Aragon's own Hibachi Club made a hypothesis on some of their mind-boggling discoveries. Following the psychoanalytical theories laid out by Sigmund Freud, they uncovered the astonishing fact that a person born in Zimbabwe in the month of August under a full moon could find the derivative of an irreducible polynomial which was divided by its multiplicative inverse in an orthogonal vector—while that person was under hypnosis on top of an electromagnet! On top of that, the Hibachians found out that the number of longitudinal vibrations set off by a Kiwi bird landing on the Great Wall of China was directly proportional to the number of zucchini plants in the Hanging Gardens of Babylon on any given day. These neoclassist followers of tautology also discovered that the Cartesian product of a matrix had absolutely no relationship with the cauliflower that they believe grows on Jupiter's sixth moon. The club has traced direct blood lines to Copernicus, Confucius, and Camus; and they believe their origin to be the Rumanian sinusoid in Czechoslovakia. As for the apocalypse of the sombrero, the similarities of the ballistic missile and see-through underwear and the reasons why Ezra Pond did not marry Tutankhamen—they said they must save something for the future, a future they eagerly await.

Devoted To Quality

The expansion and award-winning recognition of Aragon can be directly traced to the work of the administration. Working not only with the school faculty, but with the parents, students, and entire community, the Aragon administration strove to create the best teaching and learning environment possible. Following the guidelines of the new Instructional Improvement Program, the administration worked towards the expansion of variety and ciency in the courses offered at gon. The computer program wa larged, additional reading and ing programs were introduced, extensive use of films and vi was incorporated into the impr ment of courses. Awesome Art

Aestetic beauty was omnipresent at Aragon during the 1984-1985 school year thanks to Stan Grosse and his multitalented pupils. Art on campus, presented in every niche of Aragon, was able to reach the majority of the students and to give them the opportunity to view art in its untainted form. Proof: Math Department Equals Great Attribute Given many burdens, the Math Department at Aragon High School appeared to be in for a long school year. Among the department's problems were the district-wide budget cuts which reduced the funds available to purchase teaching supplies. Also the seemingly infinite number of students taking math classes posed a dilemma as well. This increase in enrollment symmetrically corresponded several factors: increase in school graduation and college trance requirements, increase in size of the Aragon Student B increase in desire of females to upper-division math, and increa recognition of the importanc math. However, even though Math Department had its probl they were capable of being c come.

The Math Department's difficu were solved, as the ratio of pos aspects to negative aspects greater than the inverse. This st

Furthermore, the de- partment continued to provide such extras as the Math Club and Team, Santa Clara Math Contest, AHSME test, and a tutoring service. To sum things up, a definition of success could be derived for this depart- ment as the year came to an end- point. This department was able to provide the base of math skills for its pupils in preparation for higher education and future careers. Therefore, the commonly under- stood conviction was proven to be true; the Math Department was definitely a great attribute of Ara- gon High School.

Strike Up The Band

Every day Aragon's own bands and choir practiced to create the sound of perfection. Conducted by Mr. Mason, the Pep Band rieled up the crowds at all the home games. Also, the Symphonic and Concert Bands practiced so hard that they were able to play at places all over the community. The choir, also led by Mr. Mason, sang at all the intermediate schools encouraging the students and the melodious choir when they arrived at Aragon. Expertise Displayed

Where else other than the Aragon Science Department would you find a teacher placing students into a water-filled garbage can to discover the actual body displacement of water? Such were the unique experiments performed by the students and staff of the Aragon Science Department this year. With classes ranging from general science to physics and studies ranging from plastics to optics, Aragon science students learned to discover new ideas and to challenge establi theories. Department head Ma Carey claimed the knowledge expertise of the science staff gr contributed to the uniqueness o department. Likewise, the rela ly newly added Advanced P ment science courses efficiently pared students for the AP e and thus, the Aragon Science partment gained a reputa throughout the district as being of mastery, skill, and proficien

Labor Of Love

The Industrial Arts classes at Aragon provided valuable hands on learning in working with woods, metals, machines, and electronics. As a result of being enrolled in the classes the students were able to directly improve their manual labor skills which would be beneficial to them possibly in helping with a career choice. Besides manual labor skills, the classes also emphasized academic learning skills such as math, reading, and writing. Students were able to directly work with the materials, and by applying creativity, were able to produce useful and decorative works. The projects the students made were dependent upon the class. In woodshop the stud were free to choose their pro in metals decorative objects made, in electronics stud found out how their ra worked, and in technical dra students made blueprints their houses. Great satisfac was found in the end results the students could take prid their accomplishments.

Skills For The Home

Have you ever wondered how to sew a button onto a shirt? Or maybe how to bone a chicken or make a dessert? Well, the answers to those questions and many more lie in the Aragon Home Economics Department.

The Home Economics Dep
ment at Aragon offered var cooking and sewing classes the beginning to the highly tovated student over the year. The cooking cla stressed such aspects as nu tion, use of equipment, and

Unlimited Potential

The Aragon English Department continued to flourish in 1984-1985 mainly as a result of several notable additions, modifications, and improvements in the curriculum and department itself. Because of the relatively new four year English requirement, the English program at the senior level was greatly improved and further developed for all phases. The department also i troduced an excellent writi program, which would consist comparison and contrast writi as well as modified research. was prepared to offer a univer ty accreditted speech cou called communications for st dents who were interested in t

Bon Annee

Bonjour. Hola. Vale. Take your pick. Aragon's unique Foreign Language Department gave students the opportunity to say "hello" in three different languages. Because Aragon is the only school to offer Latin and a fifth year Spanish and French program, the enthusiasm generated by the Foreign Language faculty was at a high. The teachers not only taught language skills, but they also encouraged studies on the arts, foods, and music of other countries. A gon's students were also gi the opportunity to participat several foreign travel progra such as a ten day spring trip Spain. Department head Ju Cotter felt that her goal of h ing students continue to take vanced levels of language achieved. All in all, the Fore Language Department had a s cessful and inspiring year. Basic Training

With the goal of teaching skills that could be utilized personally and vocationally, the Aragon Business Department reached out to large numbers of students in 1984-85. Everything from typing a letter to operating a business computer was taught in this exciting year. Typing classes ran six periods a day, and the Computers in Business class, wh began last year as a fifteen-s dent pilot course, now boas over one hundred and nin students in 1984. Another n course was the Joint Ventu Training Program offering tended sales and merchandis experience at Hillsdale Shopp Center. For those wishing

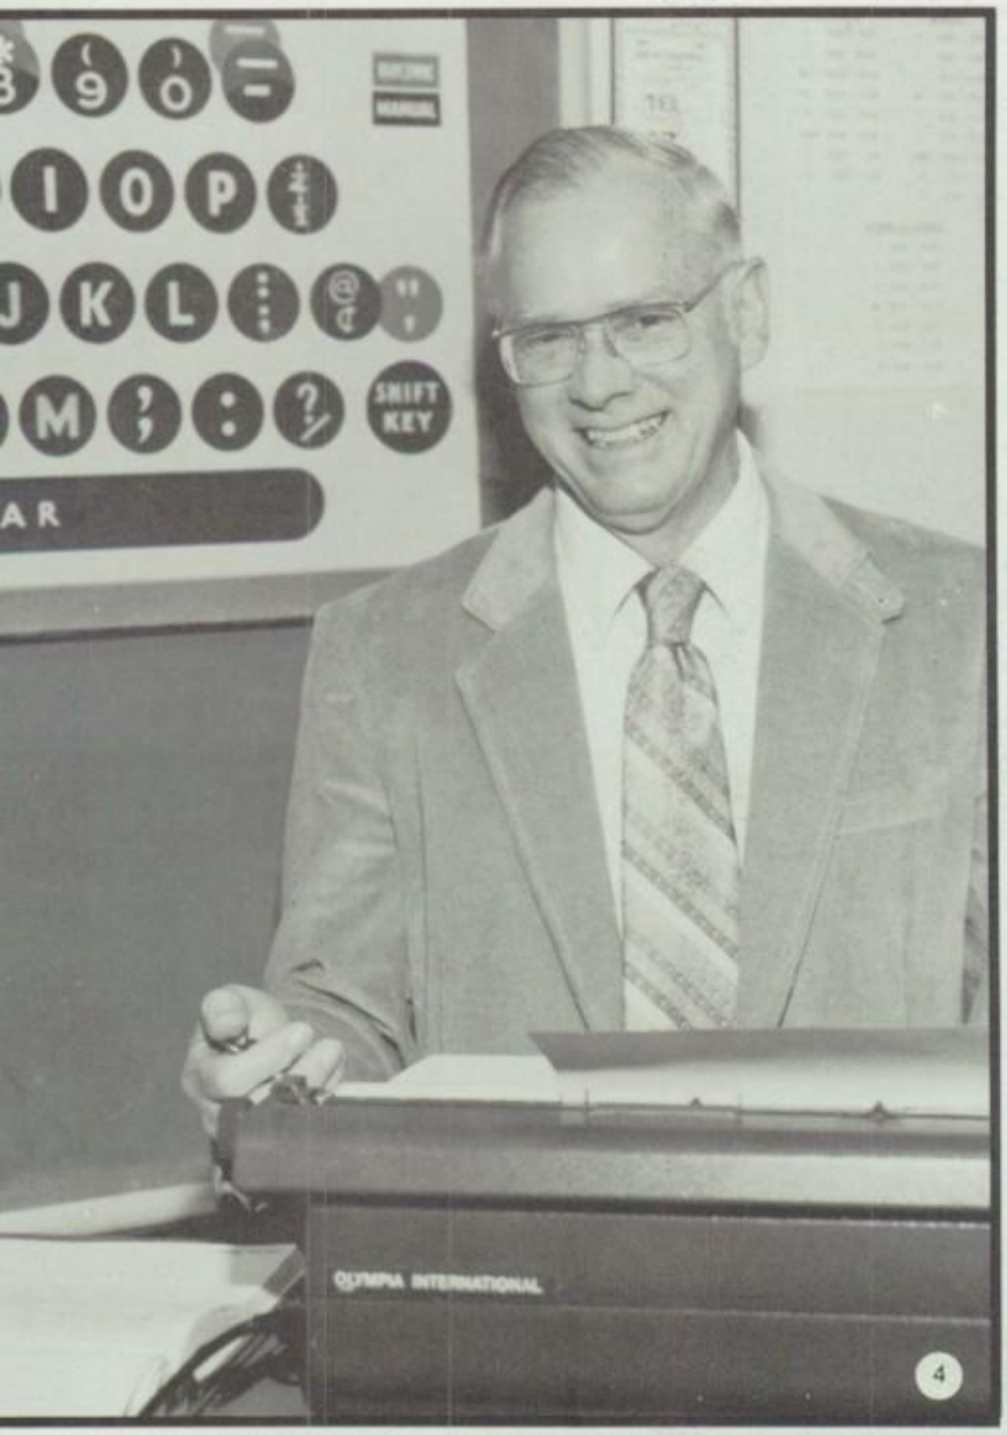
1. For the past several years, Mr. Tingley has played a major role in the improving Aragon computer program.
2. "Gosh, I hope you like my smile!!!"
3. Giving some friendly advice, Mr. Heacock works as well with his students as with his machines.
4. Timed typing can be fun, if you're the teacher.
5. "How do you eliminate this syntex error?"
6. Even librarians use the business department to its fullest potential.
7. "Sunglasses really help keep my eyes off the typewriter keys, in fact, I can't see anything!"



Making Progress

In only its second year at Aragon, the ESL program grew to double its size and continued to pursue the goal of teaching English quickly with tremendous success. "English As A Second Language" offered students with limited English ability intensive instruction to prepare them for the transition to English-speaking classes. Of primary im tance in the two year cour study was speaking and liste skills. Once they mastered conversational skills, the dents studied reading and ing. An American History teaching American tradit customs, and general his provided an additional boo help the students adjus American life.

The ESL classes were ta strictly in English, which ca

The stu-nts in the ESL program, with ch a rich cultural background, d much to offer to Aragon and e community at large. With e help of the ESL program, eign speaking students were le to learn to speak English ickly, making the change to gular classes easier and much ore enjoyable.

1. When the right word just can't be found, the hands can often get the point across.
2. While English might not be their first language, E.S.L. students always try to listen attentively.
3. Learning English leads to questions, even for the teacher.
4. Learning a new language proficiently requires daily testing of vocabulary knowledge.

Seems Like One Hundred Years . . .

The 1984-1985 senior class officers put a lot of time and effort into making the last semester in high school the most memorable. Spring was the time when the activities planned were primarily set up to pull the class together and make all seniors feel a part of one large unit in their last months at Aragon. The officers planned the usual fundraisers, but this time, the money was saved for the most exciting events yet: the Junior/Senior Prom on May 17, the afterschool deli-day celebration, and graduation on June 12!! The much experienced cabinet set their goals and carried out their duties faithfully. Looking toward the future with enthusiasm, the 1985 Senior Class Council worked with the hope that all seniors would leave Aragon with pleasant memories of all the activities shared with friends over the last four years of their lives.

Jaunty Juniors

Starting the new school year, the jaunty junior class of 1986 was always on the ball. Commencing this year, the Junior class sold Aragon painter caps; this activity not only helped with school spirit, but aided in augmenting the Junior class treasury. Then, along with the sophomores, they sponsored a Dead Week Dance. It was very prosperous in that it bestowed the students with an amusing time and earned money doing it. The junior class also made it possible for their classmates to show their friendship for one another by selling carnations. In addition, the class of 1986 worked together with the class of 1985 to create an unforgettable Junior/Senior Prom of 1985. All their time, spirit, and effort were the ingredients for their successful year.

1. FALL JUNIOR CLASS OFFICERS: April Benavidez, Danny Bernard, Chris Jones, Mark Armstrong.
2. FALL JUNIOR CLASS DELEGATES: Leslie Gordon, Jil Cappuccio, Mike Gay, Pieter Bosschart.
3. Before their scheduled meetings, Chris Jones and Carolyn Yim often discussed the agenda for the day.
4. As secretary of the Spring Semester, Carolyn Yim is responsible in taking notes during the meetings.
5. "Hey, Chris, this student council is just too exciting for me," says Jaime Schofield.
6. SPRING JUNIOR CLASS OFFICERS: Chris Jones, Jim Sarrail, Carolyn Yim, Marisa Andreini.
7. SPRING JUNIOR CLASS DELEGATES: Susie Hearn, Leslie Gordon, Jil Cappuccio, Mike Gay, Judy Stolte.

Spirit, Success, And Great Times

The students of the Class of '87 proved to all at Aragon that they were up at the top of the campus scene, even though they were not yet upperclassmen. The Sophomores showed terrific spirit and energy at the football games, basketball games, dances, and all the other spirit-raising events.

Not only did it bring spirit to Aragon activities, the Sophomore Student Government planned many creative, successful activities. The "Dead Week" dance and sales of concessions at some sports events brought great financial success to the Sophomores, establishing it as a hard-working, enthusiastic class. The Class of '87 continued to build up school spirit by selling chocolate Easter bunnies and Aragon t-shirts in the Spring. With active involvement in the Sophomore Student Government, the Class of '87 proved that hard work, along with enthusiastic spirit, leads to success and great times.

Politically Speaking . . .

Leaping into the school year with "fluorescent" enthusiasm, the Freshmen Student Government embodied the spirit and eagerness of the novice class. To socially unite the class, the officers sponsored a Freshman Fun Night to bring together all the Freshmen in a friendly atmosphere in order to meet others from various feeder schools. To enhance the monetary status of the Freshmen, the officers selected the "tried and true method" of candy sales. World's Finest Chocolates never fail. Although the officers were in awe of the complex political system, by the second semester the "almost Sophomores" felt at ease on the Aragon Student Council. The Freshmen class came to represent a powerful voice in student government and ended the year on a high note. Hopefully, they will be able to carry their spirit and unity along with them during their four year journey.

1. FALL OFFICERS: Charlie Crouse, Linda Sell, Margaret Abe, Michelle Murray.
2. The excitement of student council!
3. FALL DELEGATES: Holly Waid, Laura Bernstein, Eric Low, Linda Cheu, Chip Strause.
4. The freshmen plan their attack on student council.
5. SPRING DELEGATES: Nick Sarles, Sonja Kretchmer, Skip Conners, Laura Bernstein, Margaret Abe.
6. SPRING OFFICERS: Chip Strause, Charlie Crouse, Shawna Pulley, Michelle Murray.
7. With intense curiosity, Mr. Raiter listens to the Freshmen's suggestion.

Ode To The Yearbook Staff

Three hardworking staffs made El
Tosoro
'85 one fabulous book:
What are they all about?
Let's take a look.

Under the direction of Dave and Jade,
Without those terrific candids
Our yearbook would not have been made.

Likewise, Copy wrote all the fabulous descriptions
Of football, the Math Club, and things of that sort.
When they had trouble with grammar,
To Liesl they did resort.

Then Layout arranged the pictures on the pages
One can see their creativity shine.
With Bob as the editor,
The Layout staff was one of a kind!

We mustn't forget to mention Cyndi and Elizabeth
Who thought they were going to lose their minds.
Also the advisors Dr. Fisher and Mr.
Tingley
Who implored the staff to meet those deadlines!

They all worked together
With teamwork and dedication,
To make El Tosoro '85
One singular sensation!

1. "I hope you know what you're doing, Jade."
2. It must be a two-way line!
3. "What do they think they're doing? — Laying out or staring at a palm tree!"
4. "Isn't it great to be on the other side of the camera for a change?"
5. Introducing the El Tesoro staffs: layout, copy, photo. — And let us never forget the editors.
6. "So, ahh ... What's up, guys?"
7. "Hey, I want a copy of this even if no one reads what we write anyway!"

Chaos Is The Reality Of Order

Paint if you will a picture; six barely conscious bodies — enervated — sprawled over what used to be the Addiso floor before it became residence to approximately 2014.5 pictures, crumpled carbons, a cropper or two (make that o . . . once there really were eleven!!), an empty dish of walking taco dip, and the omnipresent Service Commission h as well as a few "Vis-Ed" cards thrown in for style. No, it's not another episode of "Mission Impossible", and it's n your room. Then, what is it? You are now visualizing the chaos that bred the order which you are holding in yo hands. Yes, order does exist in chaos; we didn't make it up and neither did Doc, it's true! My editorial peers and learned the hard way. Amidst the hustle and bustle, common to the life of a yearbook editor, we all managed extract some very valuable and memorable learning experiences during our nine months plus at the helm. (And th is not "Ripley's" so . . . believe it!) Daily experience breeds trivial knowledge as well; collectively, the editors of yo yearbook have learned:

— The time it takes to walk from Liesl's house to Cyndi's is the time it takes to eat an apple.
— Service Commissioners need 25 hours of sleep a day.
— It's only a communication problem.
— It costs $34.95 to call Hawaii from E-4 for five minutes. Amazing, isn't it? But seriously; my, as well as my pee time spent as an editor has been invaluable, giving us a sense of our "own" order in our "own" chaos. We leave y with a few closing statements:

"Whatever you do . . . don't say where you got the phone number 1"
"Don't take off the radiator cap . . . !"
"No, we can't make the whole thing green."
"You can do anything in flats."
"No, Bob, we don't know what you mean, we don't see what you're saying, and you can't as a question."

Chris,
Well, it's been one of them years! I'll say another one of them years! I wish I could but I won't. Well, so you up so good, be careful! Love ya!
Kristy

Chris,
Weee, we made it! Only 3 to go! Thax God! Weee, I enjoyed getting to know ya better this year! Hopefully over the summer we can have sum memorable times together. You are a great friend, and I'll remember ya always! I have learned alot from you. Stay Sweet!

Love and Friends Forever!

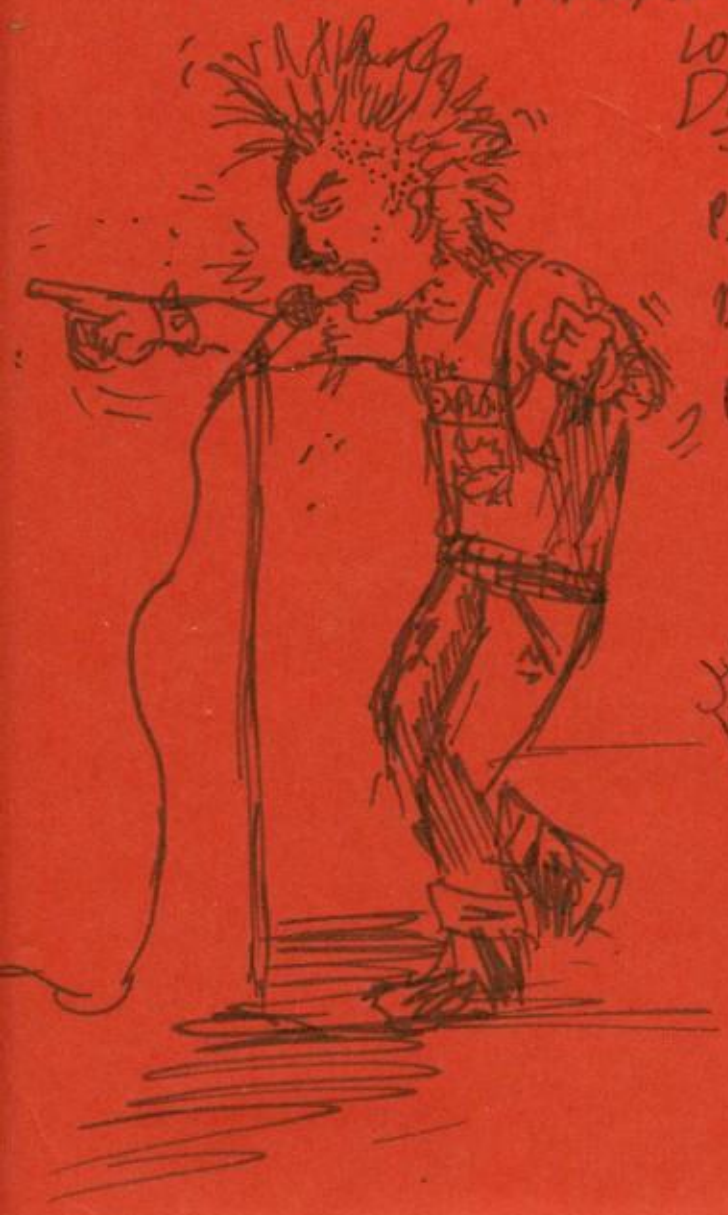
Well, we made it!!! You have to admit it, it was a pretty good year. Between Jerald (ha!) Rob, Chad, & Joel we've had fun, ... or at least a good laugh! Nobody said it was going to be easy being a skaters girlfriend. We certainly know that! But think how much we've learned from them. GET THAT GRIN OFF YOUR FACE!!!!

CHRIS, IT'S BEEN RAD THIS YEAR. I THINK YOU'RE REALLY COOL, AND I GLAD I MET YOU. I HOPE I SEE YOU AT ALL THE KILLER GIGS THIS SUMMER. WE ALL HAD LOTS OF FUN (ART, CLAUDIA, ETC.) AND I HOPE THERE'S MANY MORE GOOD TIMES TO COME. UNFORTUNATELY I'M GOING TO SM HI NEXT YEAR, BUT I'M SURE I'LL SEE YOU AROUND. STAY COOL AND HAVE A RAD SUMMER. CALL ME UP IF YOU WANT TO GIVE AWAY FREE DRUGS OR DRIVE ME TO GIGS!! 345-9460 ANYWAYS LOVE, PEACE, ANARCHY, ETC.

LOVE, DAN



Ohhh!! Life is so GREAT what would we do without Alcohol, SEX, $$, remember TSOL del VALLE ETC. Oh, I'm totally tickled pink that we've become GREAT friends. The more exciting things we've do, the more I realize how many more things there are to do. Are we going to L.A. this summer or what?!! & S.F., SC (to get tan) LETS LEARN how to surf. Are we going to be in good shape or what! TALK to you later!

P.S. KEEP DRAWING!

love forever and ever,

Jenny
